

The doors at South Quad are somewhat finicky and can get stuck. Sometimes you'll just be tugging on the door for around 10 seconds until it finally decides to open. Other times, although rare, you'll just have to give up and try another. It's pretty inconvenient.